JOHN BENNETT fine paintings

A Pointer with Gun and Dead Game in a landscape

WILLIAM MURRAY

Sold

REF: 374751

Height: 66.2 cm (26.1")

London, England

+44 (0) 20 8748 1747

Width: 112 cm (44.1")

Description

WILLIAM MURRAY
Scottish School
18th century

A Pointer with Gun and Dead Game in a landscape

Oil on canvas
Signed and dated 1799

William Murray was a Scottish artist about whose life little is known and whose paintings appear rarely. He worked in the latter part of the eighteenth century and into the first decade of the nineteenth and is known through his paintings which are comprised principally of paintings featuring dogs, either in a sporting still life composition featuring a gun and dead game usually in a woodland setting or else as studies of dogs more in the animal portrait mould.

The still life paintings tend to be a similar horizontal size and shape are reminiscent of earlier 18th century artists such as Charles Collins (c.1680-1744), Pieter Andreas Rysbrack (c.1684-1748) and Edward Langton (fl.1737-1751). The recorded dog portraits have been on a small scale and are best known from a group of paintings which passed through Ackermann and featured hounds including one of the Beagles Gudger, Betsey and Tuner.

Bibliography:
Dictionary of British Animal Painters - J C Wood
Dog Painting; A Social History of the Dog in Art - William Secord
Dictionary of British Sporting Painters - Sydney M Pavière
Dictionary of Scottish Art - Peter J M McEwan
Dictionary of Sporting Artists 1650-1900 - Mary Ann Wingfield

London, England

+44 (0) 20 8748 1747